Supernatural Premonitions.

An engineer, who had been engaged sometime on a rail-road, tells the following story:

"I was running a night express train and had a train of ten cars—eight passenger and two baggage cars—and all were well loaded. I was behind time, and very anxious to make a certain point. Thus I was using every exertion and putting the engine to the utmost speed of which she was capable. I was on a section of the road usually considered the best running ground on the line, and was endeavoring to make the most of it, when a conviction struck me that I must stop.

A something seemed to tell me that to go on was dangerous, and that I must stop if I would save life. I looked back upon my train and it was all right. I strained my eyes and peered into the darkness, and could see no signal of danger, and there I could see five miles in the day time. I listened to the workings of my engine, tried the water, looked at the gague, and all was right. I tried to laugh myself out of what I then considered a childish fear; but, like Banquo's ghost, it would not down at my bidding, but grew stronger in its hold upon me.

I thought of the ridicule I would have heaped upon me if I did stop; but it was of no avail. The conviction—for by this time it had ripened into a conviction—that I must stop, grew stronger, and I shut off and blew the whistle for breakers. I came to a dead halt, got off, and went a-head a little way, without saying any thing to any body what the matter was. I had a lamp in my hand and had got about sixty feet, when I saw what convinced me that premonitions are sometimes possible. I dropped the lantern from my nerveless grasp, and sat down on the track, utterly unable to stand; for there was a switch, the thought of which had never entered my mind, as it had never been used since I had been on the road, and was known to be spiked, but was open to lead me off the track! The switch led into a stone quarry, from which stone for bridge purposes had been quarried, and the switch was left there in case stone should be needed at any time, but it was always locked, and the switch rail spiked.

Yet here it was wide open, and had I not obeyed my premonition—warning—call it what you will—I should have run into it, and, at the end of the track, only about ten rods long, my heavy engine train, moving along at the rate of thirty miles an hour, would have come into collision with a solid wall of rock, eighteen feet high. The consequence, had I done so, can neither be imagined nor described; but they could not by possibility been otherwise than fatally horrid. This is my experience in getting warnings from a source I know not, and cannot divine. It is a mystery, for which I am very thankful, however, although I dare not attempt to explain it, or say whence it came."

Amusing Incident.

The Cuban Messenger, the English paper at Havana, has the following:

As the drayman was furiously beating the lank, half-starved mule, near government square, Havana, he was astounded to hear the animal exclaim—

"Enough! you brute."

The drayman looked aghast, and examined under his dray, and around his mule to find the origin of the sepulchral voice, when he was again horrified to hear from the animal to all appearances:

"You are a brute!"

The drayman was dumfounded, trembled like an aspen leaf, and dropped his whip as if stung by an adder. He blessed himself, and was about falling on his knees, when he again heard:

"I was your mother once upon a time."

This capped the climax, and a gentleman from the crowd that had gathered around, endeavored to explain to the terror-stricken drayman, that sometimes disembodied spirits return to the world in the form of animals. Just at this moment Signor Blitz, accompanied by his two friends, who had been looking on the strange scene, and enjoying the fun, adjourned to the Union House, on the neighboring corner, and left the crowd endeavoring to induce the animal to speak again, and the drayman embracing the mule in a most filial manner.

A little girl hearing it said that she was born on the queen's birth-day, took no notice of it at the time, but a few days after asked her father if she and the queen were twins?

The horse "warranted to stand without tying," is now to be sold with the additional guarantee, that "he will not move without whipping."

A kind friend was making a little cotton doll for little Annie Grace, who was much interested in the manufacture. She was impatient to have the eyes painted, and when told that they must be done last, she said—"That's the reason why we can't see how God makes us—He puts in the eyes the last thing."

A lady much given to gadding, was suddenly taken ill at home one day, and sent her husband in great haste for a physician. The obedient soul ran all the way, but then returned to put the important query—"My dear, where shall I find you when I return from the doctor's?"

The Vancouver Chronicle states that the following orders have been transmitted to Col. Beall:

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 1, 1861.

To Col. B. L. Beall:

Notify the regular troops in the District of Oregon to be in readiness to be relieved by volunteers. Recall the detachment now with Lieut. Mullan. All the regulars go to New York. By order: RICHARD C. DRUM, Assistant Adj. General.

To Col. L. B. Beall:

The horses and horse equipments pertaining to Capt. Whittlesey's Company will be turned over to the company of Oregon Volunteers. The Dragoon horses and equipments belonging to the company at Walla Walla will be brought to the city. Recall the detachment at Warm Springs.

By order: RICHARD C. DRUM, Assistant Adj. General.

The Corvallis Union publishes a speech from the notorious Vallandingham, of Ohio, and says that extra copies are printed for circulation. Vallandingham stands high with the Secessionists. Recently, at Paducah, Kentucky, the hot-bed of Secession, there was a meeting of Secessionists, and they passed a resolution commending "the heroic Vallandingham," and announcing their "warmest approbation and admiration for his conduct." The following is another portion of the proceedings of that meeting:

"On motion, THE MEETING ADJOURNED WITH THREE CHEERS FOR THE SOUTHERN CONFEDERACY."

Such an endorsement of Vallandingham, by a meeting who cheer for the Southern Confederacy, shows the traitorous character of the man, and of his supporters, in Oregon, as elsewhere.

The Toronto (Canada) Globe says: "The South feels the pressure of the blockade keenly, and their sole hope of its being raised rests on the action of the European Powers, who will not interfere. If the North could only add to their present movements the landing of forces at various points on the Southern coast, the rebels would be as thoroughly harrassed as any people ever were."

Jesse D. Bright, Senator of Indiana, is said to be missing, since the discovery of his letter to Jeff. Davis.

HENRY L. PITTOCK.

The Advertiser's Infidelity.

The Advertiser,—which finds no cause of complaint in the acts of the rebels of the South, has been in the constant practice of denouncing President Lincoln and the federal government for adopting measures to sustain the government and to crush rebellion. It is all right when Jeff Davis raises armies to march upon Washington, but it is all wrong when President Lincoln raises armies to meet him, and, in the Advertiser's opinion he ought to be impeached and punished for so doing. The Advertiser, of yesterday, says that for its course in this respect, its "motives have been misconstrued and its influence sought to be impaired"!! and asserts that CONGRESS REFUSED TO APPROVE OF THE ACTS OF THE PRESIDENT.

Now, we refer the Advertiser and others concerned, to the 3d section of the act, passed at the recent session of Congress, entitled "an act to increase the pay of the privates in the regular army, and of the volunteers in the service of the United States, and for other purposes," which reads as follows:

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That all acts, proclamations and orders of the President of the United States after the fourth of March, 1861, respecting the army and navy of the United States, and respecting the calling out of or relating to the militia or volunteers from the States, ARE HEREBY APPROVED AND IN ALL RESPECTS LEGALIZED and made valid, to the same intent and with the same effect as if they had been issued or done under the previous express authority and direction of the Congress of the United States."

This is just as broad and emphatic an approval of the acts of the President as words can be made to express it. The "acts, proclamations and orders" of the President are not merely "in all respects legalized and made valid," should there have been any doubt on the subject, but Congress goes further and "APPROVES" them without qualification and to the full extent. The statement, therefore in the Advertiser yesterday, that "Congress refused to sanction the acts of the President, is manifestly untrue. What excuse has Gov. Curry for attempting to palm such a gross perversion of truth upon the people?

The State of Parties.

In Vermont, both parties support the Union ticket. There are some grumbling "peace" men, who are of course Secessionists.

Two Conventions have been held in Syracuse, New York. They have united in getting up a ticket for State officers. On this ticket there are four Republicans and four Union Democrats. It is the exponent of the great Union sentiment. The "Peace Party," alias Secessionists, are dying out.

In Ohio, the Republican Central Committee proposed to unite with the Democratic Central Committee and form one ticket for State officers. There were some "peace men" (Secessionists) on the Democratic Committee, and the proposition was declined. When the Republican Convention was held, the Democratic masses sent delegates, which were received, and Union nominations were made.

The "Peace Party" in all the loyal States, is considered the "Secession Party"—and will have the same termination as the tory peace party of the Revolution, and the federal peace party in the war of 1812.

Delusion and Treason.

Editor Oregonian:—

I have been traveling extensively in Oregon this summer and fall; and I am forced to the conclusion that there are many disunionists among us. Yes, sir; this young Oregon, scarcely out of the shell of territorial pupilage, "if we may be allowed the expression," stinks with an element foul and corrupt, bordering, I may at least safely say, on actual treason, whose rankness "smells to Heaven."

Go up Salt creek, on the Luckyuke, through the Longtom flats, into the settlements in the forks of the Umpqua, down Cow creek, and along Bear creek in Jackson county; Nay! almost anywhere, and you will find toryism, disgustingly common. But travel where you may and inquire of a certain class of men for disunionists, and you will find none—all, all, Union men. But such Union men think the south has been imposed upon; as tho' it had its own way ever since the government began, still it is in the mouth of every disunionist, that "the South has been imposed upon;" and on that account they choose the part of the South. Now in taking part with the South, do they oppose this government? Certainly they do! and I sometimes think they carry their opposition as far as they dare; but why do they wish such a government destroyed? because they think "the south has been, and is now being imposed upon;" and they would sooner this government were destroyed than the dear South be imposed upon.

It is certainly remarkable, if not strange, to meet with such sentiments in this country; for though the southern States should succeed in going out of the Union, can the malcontents of this State, hope with any color of reason or common sense, that the "Southern Confederation ever can extend its government over all the States, both slave and free? Can they expect the slave-mania'd niggardly government of Montgomery ever to make laws for Oregon and California situated as they are in relation geographically to the other free States, and swarming with a population opposed to slavery in these States and this climate? or do they calculate to lop these States off from the Pacific slope and have the people of Oregon to pay Joe Lane to carry them on the back of his dead body to Jeff. Davis' Confederation? We think not! Then what's the meaning of this contempt and opposition to the American flag, and affection for the rebel ensign? What is the object in view in such disloyal demonstrations as we have witnessed? However that may be answered subsequently, one thing we can now say is certain, and it is this: it serves to point out to American citizens who among them are disposed to blow them up within camp when the enemy draws nigh—who are the enemies to freedom—to the best government in the world, who scorn our cherished institutions, and mocking put to nought our sacred memories—would hang Lincoln—all that like him sustain the government,—would were Washington resurrected, and to appear among them, holding in his hand the flag under which he administered this government—snatch the sacred ensign from his grasp, rend it in pieces, hang the Father of his country, and plant the traitor's flag over his grave.

These are the kind of Union men that get their Union from the Corvallis printing office; and such is the kind of patriotism cherished by them in gratitude for the inestimable blessings they have enjoyed as impartially flowing from our excellent institutions.—"President Lincoln ought to be hung, because he is a usurper, and has done more to destroy this government than any other man." This speech is as common among them as ignorance and stupidity. When the question is put; what has Lincoln done to destroy the government? this is the reply; "He was elected by the Republicans and Abolitionists on purpose to rob the south of their rights, and he has made war on the slave States to set the niggers free, and he had no right to call on the states for troops; so he has violated the Constitution and 'order' being." As to the charge of being a Usurper, every man that knows there is a President ought to know, that Lincoln was elected in a straight forward Constitutional manner, therefore is not an usurper. As to destroying the government, it is as plain as the first letter of the alphabet to any unbiased mind that the president ever since he has been at the head of the government has exerted himself to the utmost to sustain the supremacy of the laws of the United States. And as to making war on the south to abolish slavery, it is a matter of history that the world knows, that South Carolina was in open rebellion when Lincoln took his seat in the presidential chair; and it is equally well known that the Republican party is as clear of any principle of slave abolition as any party in the Government.

The Right Spirit.

Capt. Dent commanding at Fort Hoskins, Oregon, has addressed a communication to Col. Rector, Superintendent of Indian Affairs, in which he states that some insidious foes have charged him with being a Secessionist. He says that it will be his pride and aim to defend the country against all its enemies, whether foreign foes or domestic traitors. He encloses to Col. Rector the following article for publication—which is directly to the point, and does him distinguished honor:

FORT HOSKINS, Oregon,
Sept. 6, 1861.

WHEREAS certain covert enemies have associated my name with that of Secessionist, therefore, be it known, that I recognise but two parties in the United States; those for and those against their country, the former as patriots the latter as traitors. I was born and raised under the Stars and Stripes; that flag is the emblem of nationality of the country that educated me as a soldier. I will remain under, guard, and defend, that flag and the country and Government of which it is the emblem, until that emblem shrouds me for a soldier's grave.

F. L. DENT,
Captain 9th Infantry, U. S. A.

The Archbishop of Baltimore directed that on the day fixed by the United States as one of humiliation, fasting, and prayer the the collect Pro quacumque tribulatione, with the Litany of the Saints and the prayer for the authorities, be recited in all the parochial churches of his diocese, at the hour which the respective clergy in charge shall appoint. In order to establish uniformity in the public offices of the Church he also directs that the last-mentioned prayer—which was framed by John Carroll, the venerated founder of the American hierarchy, and was prescribed in the first Synod of Baltimore, held in the year 1791—be recited on all Sundays at the parochial Mass. It contains the following petition:

"We pray thee, O God of might, wisdom, and justice, through whom authority is rightly administered, laws are enacted, and judgment decreed, assist with Thy holy spirit of counsel and fortitude, the President of these United States, that his administration may be conducted in righteousness, and be eminently useful to thy people, over whom he presides; by encouraging due respect for virtue and religion; by a faithful execution of the laws in justice and mercy; and by restraining vice and immorality. Let the light of Thy divine wisdom direct the deliberations of Congress, and shine forth in all their proceedings and laws framed for our rule and government, so that they may tend to the preservation of peace, the promotion of national happiness, the increase of industry, sobriety, and useful knowledge, and may perpetuate to us the blessings of equal liberty."

A GRAND MOVEMENT SOUTHWARD IN CONTEMPLATION.—The Marysville Appeal says: "The Administration is keeping its plans entirely secret, now-a-days, having learned the mischief of publicity; but enough leaks out, or is guessed at by subordinates in command, to indicate that the original plan for a forward movement in October is adhered to and will be carried out. The grand army is being thoroughly prepared under supervision of the Napoleonic McClellan, who seems to be everywhere and everything, and second in popularity with the troops and people only to Lincoln himself. While reviewing the troops on the Virginia side of the Potomac, recently, he assured them that they would very soon have a chance to retrieve the Bull Run disaster, and uttered this short speech: 'Soldiers, we have had our last retreat; we have seen our last defeat. You stand by me, and I will stand by you, and henceforth victory will crown our efforts.'

Gen. Butler lately made a speech of more significance yet. He said: 'Upon one occasion a panic overtook our troops, but I do not hesitate to say that until some man shall show me troops who have never been overtaken by a panic, I shall not believe that the fact is evidence of a want of courage; and hereafter, with our troops backed by the navy and our faithful ally of the North, Jack Frost, who shall come and clear away the malaria of the South, we shall march southward, as I said here not many weeks ago, from this place, and there shall be no footsteps backward until this rebellion is crushed out of this Union, and every man at the South shall have that which the Declaration of Independence says, and which the Secessionists quote, 'The right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.'

Heaven speed the day!"

The Fashionable Gentleman.—Sir Philip Sydney is known to all readers of history as the fashionable English Gentleman, who flourished in the reign of Queen Elizabeth, and who was so tidy in dress, and graceful in manner, that he almost captivated the Queen, and won enough of her affections to prompt her to call him one of her "Jewels." Now we cannot vouch for all we read and hear, but we do know that neatness of dress and deportment of character has a very winning influence over all, and especially among the Ladies; and if any one desires to imitate Sir Philip, let him step into the ONE PRICE STORE and secure himself a fashionable suit of those arrived by the last Steamer. Among the many articles now in vogue are the Paris Frocks, the London Coats, the New York Sacks, the Broadway Suits, the French Velvet Vests, the Opera Hats, and the New Style Scarfs. All the articles have been purchased low, and will be sold at small advance, and can be seen at HARKER'S, opposite Commercial Wharf.

VERMONT ELECTION.—An Eastern despatch dated Montpelier, September 2[illegible], says:

In the State election, to-day, the party line was entirely broken. Holbrook was supported by the Republicans and liberal Democrats, Smalley was supported by the straight Democrats, and Tracy by the Union party. Returns show Holbrook greatly a-head.

CITY.

SAD AFFAIR.—On Thursday night, after the salutes were fired, a difficulty occurred at the Bank Exchange, which was continued at the Pioneer Hotel, and ended in the shooting of Capt. G. W. Staples by F. Patterson, which inflicted a dangerous wound in the abdomen, and it is not believed that he will survive more than from three to five days; but we hope for the best. We refrain from publishing the contradictory statements afloat. There will be a preliminary examinatin of the case before the Recorder on Friday next commencing at 10 o'clock. The accused is in jail.

SAILING OF STEAMER.—On account of the row affair which occurred at the time appointed for the sailing of the Pacific, on Thursday last, she did not leave until noon yesterday. The first Officer had command.

ARRIVAL OF CARRIE LADD.—The steamer Carrie Ladd brought nothing later from the Nez Perces mines last night. The steamer Idaho, on her upward trip, struck a rock about a mile below the mouth of the Umatilla, where she was run ashore, in a sinking condition. She received but little damage, and freight all saved. We will very likely have news from the mines on Monday evening next.

The new steamer Enterprise is now carrying the mails to the Sound. They receive them semi-weekly.

We acknowledge the receipt of a large number of pictorial and other papers from STRATTON & Co., periodical and newspaper Agents, San Francisco. They came in "advance of the mail."

There has been a stampede from Steilacoom of four prisoners, Gardner, Simmons, McAndrew, and Johnson, left suddenly, on the 4th, for parts unknown.

The remains of Mr. Wiley, freight clerk of the Nora Nevada, have been found in the river Victoria. He undoubtedly fell overboard accidentally.

The Advertiser has much to say in appreciation of hostilities by savages on this coast. One never said a word in pondemnation of the employment of savages by his Secessionist friends to tomahawk and cut the throats of the Unionists. Not a word.

Ben. McCulloch, the leader of the invading army of Secessionists who have invaded Missouri, whites and Indians, in recording the exploits of his thirteen hundred Creek warriors in the Helena Shield, an Arkansas paper says of them:

"These Indians were armed with rifles, horse pistols, and tomahawks, and had their faces painted, one half red and the other white."

Webster has the Advertiser ever expressed a regret that these infuriated savages were sent into Missouri to use their rifles, their pistols, bowie knives, and tomahawks, upon Unidn citizens?

MR. PRESIDENT AND KENTUCKY.—Colonel Forney writes from Washington to the Philadelphia Press:

"A few weeks ago, when called upon to send regular troops into Kentuky, against their own will, as you will recollect, many Union men in Kentucky, alleging that they could defend the soil of Kentuky themselves against the Secessionists, the President remarked: "I am exceedingly anxious to protect the Union men, and have taken all proper measures to do so, as well in Kentuky as in Tennessee, but I am at the head of a great nation, and must be governed by circumstances, and by wise forecasts as far as possible. I will illustrate my position by the fable of the farmer, who entered home and found that, while his two little children were asleep, a number of snakes had taken possession of the bed. He could not strike the snakes without endangering our offspring, and, therefore, he had to stay his hand." The effect of the comparison was unmistakeable.

Swett's Grape Bitters, or Restorative Wine, manufactured under the supervision of DR. A. M. SWETT, the celebrated Clarvoyant Physician, and prepared from roots and herbs of great medicinal virtue, combined with the pure juice of the California Grape—a certain remedy for Liver Complaint, Debility, Biliousness, Costiveness, Dyspepsia, Impaired Appetite, Impure Breath, &c., and all diseases requiring a powerful Liver Invigorator and Tonic. Warranted the best remedy ever invented for diseases peculiar to females, such as Leucorrea, or Whites, Weaknesses, &c. Sold by all Druggists, and by DANIEL SWETT, Proprietor, 535 California street, San Francisco. aug24l6m

The Medical and Surgical Institute of DR. L. J. CZAPKAY is already secured in a position which places it, as well as its proprietor, far above the assaults of envy and professional malice. In the schools of France, the highest prizes are often awarded to practitioners in this department of medical science, and they occupy, with others, an equally lofty position in the profession. Richard is an illustrious example, a shining light among the philosophical stars of his age in Europe, and Dr. Czapkay has fully equalled him in this country, as is proof of which, the Philadelphia College of Medicine commemorated him with a Diploma, and the Honorary academic degree. Selecting this as his field of operation, although qualified as a graduate of the University of Pesth, and late Chief Surgeon of the Hungarian Revolutionary army, for more extended labors, Dr. L. J. Czapkay has bent his earnest attention to the cure of chronic and private diseases, in which he has become so great an expert, that he is now regarded as the leader in this branch of his profession throughout the United States, and his portrait and biography are published as matter of interest to their readers in the most exclusive journals. The Doctor's offices are at his Medical and Surgical Institute, on Sacramento street, corner of Le Count, nearly opposite the buildings of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, San Francisco. We ask particular attention of our readers to the sworn certificates of remarkable cures, in another column of this paper. Persons not wishing to keep himself correspondling, please enclose $10 in their letters, and they will get immediate attention to their cases. Address, L. J. CZAPKAY, M. D., San Francisco, Cal. june29dawly
